The management profession is changing at a fast pace Technology has enabled today's managers to reach out to customers through various channels both organized and unorganized Social media and other virtual platforms are being used intensively to understand customers and explore new horizons Information and data have enabled growth for both new and established companies Technology has democratised innovation branding and distribution channels On the flip side focus on growth has led businesses to excessively utilise resources Climate change is becoming a serious issue in today's world Companies are now adopting green practices in all areas of business practice from product development manufacturing fuel use to financial reporting The Covid 19 pandemic has altered business practices in many ways Businesses are still on the path of recovery from the two years of devastating impact This has also led to the emergence of different business models and new entrepreneurs At the end of the day business is all about people community and society It is important to understand whether Indian businesses have enabled the economy and people to benefit from business growth This book includes research papers on different operational areas of management including finance economy marketing entrepreneurship innovation corporate governance and Corporate Social Responsibility The central theme of these research papers is Indian business

EU Competition Law, Data Protection and Online Platforms: Data as Essential Facility Inge Graef, 2016-10-17 All are agreed that the digital economy contributes to a dynamic evolution of markets and competition Nonetheless concerns are increasingly raised about the market dominance of a few key players Because these companies hold the power to drive rivals out of business regulators have begun to seek scope for competition enforcement in cases where companies claim that withholding data is needed to satisfy customers and cut costs This book is the first focus on how competition law enforcement tools can be applied to refusals of dominant firms to give access data on online platforms such as search engines social networks and e commerce platforms commonly referred to as the gatekeepers of the Internet The question arises whether the denial of a dominant firm to grant competitors access to its data could constitute a refusal to deal and lead to competition law liability under the so called essential facilities doctrine according to which firms need access to shared knowledge in order to be able to compete A possible duty to share data with rivals also brings to the forefront the interaction of competition law with data protection legislation considering that the required information may include personal data of individuals Building on the refusal to deal concept and using a multidisciplinary approach the analysis covers such issues and topics as the following data portability interoperability data as a competitive advantage or entry barrier in digital markets market definition and dominance with respect to data disruptive versus sustaining innovation role of intellectual property regimes economic trade off in essential facilities cases relationship of competition enforcement with data protection law and data related competition concerns in merger cases The author draws on a wealth of relevant material including EU and US decision making practice case law and policy documents as well as economic and empirical literature on the link between competition and innovation The book concludes with a proposed framework for the application of the essential facilities doctrine to potential forms of abuse of dominance relating to data In addition it makes suggestions as to how data protection interests can be integrated into competition policy An invaluable contribution to ongoing academic and policy discussions about how data related competition concerns should be addressed under competition law the analysis clearly demonstrates how existing competition tools for market definition and assessment of dominance can be applied to online platforms It will be of immeasurable value to the many jurists business persons and academics concerned with this very timely subject

Emissions Trading Schemes under International Economic Law James Munro, 2018-08-09 The announcement by China that it will implement a national emissions trading scheme confirms the status of this instrument as the pre eminent policy choice for mitigating climate change China will join the dozens of existing and emerging schemes around the world from the EU to California South Korea to New Zealand that use carbon units otherwise known as emissions permits or carbon credits to trade in greenhouse gas emissions in a multi billion dollar global carbon market However to date there has been no consensus about this pre eminent policy instrument being regulated by international economic law through the World Trade Organization international investment agreements and free trade agreements Munro addresses this issue by evaluating whether carbon units qualify as goods services financial services and investments under international economic law and showing how international economic law applies to emissions trading scheme in diverse and unexpected ways Further by engaging in a comparative assessment of schemes around the world his book illustrates how and why all emissions trading schemes engage in various forms of violations of international economic law which would not in most instances be justified by environmental or other exceptions In doing so he demonstrates how such schemes can be designed or reformed in ways to ensure their future compliance

Monetary Policy in India Chetan Ghatge, Kenneth M. Kletzer, 2016-11-25 This book presents research that applies contemporary monetary theory and state of the art econometric methods to the analysis of the monetary and financial aspects of the Indian economy and the impact of monetary policy on economic performance Indian monetary policy has attracted significant attention from Indian and international macroeconomists over the last several years Interest in how monetary policy influences economic performance and how monetary policy is conducted in India is growing The prospects for further financial sector reform and ongoing inflation in India have sparked new interest in the role of money and monetary policy in India among economists policy makers and students alike The book should also interest economists outside India because it studies monetary economics in a major emerging market economy and makes advances in the analysis of how financial market imperfections and structural constraints influence the effects of monetary policy

Consumer Involvement in Private EU Competition Law Enforcement Maria Ioannidou, 2015-09-03 Despite the growing importance of consumer welfare in EU competition law debates there remains a significant disconnect between rhetoric and reality as consumers and their interests still play only an ancillary role in this area of law Consumer Involvement in Private EU Competition Law Enforcement is the first monograph to exclusively address this highly topical and much debated subject providing a timely and wide ranging examination of the need for more active consumer participation in competition law Written by an expert in the field it sets out a comprehensive framework of policy implications and arguments for greater involvement positioning the debate in the context of a broader EU law perspective It outlines pragmatic approaches to remedial and procedural measures that would enable consumer empowerment Finally the book identifies key institutional and political obstacles to the adoption of effective measures and suggests alternative routes to enhance the role of consumers in private competition law enforcement The book s innovative approach combining normative analysis and practical solutions make it invaluable for academics policy makers and practitioners in the field

Heterarchy in World Politics Philip G. Cerny, 2022-12-30 Heterarchy in World Politics challenges the fundamental framing of international relations and world politics IR theory has always been dominated by the presumption that world politics is at its core a system of states However this has always been problematic challengeable time bound and increasingly anachronistic In the 21st century world politics is becoming increasingly multi nodal and characterized by heterarchy the coexistence and conflict between differently structured micro and meso quasi hierarchies that compete and overlap not only across borders but also across economic financial sectors and social groupings Thinking about international order in terms of heterarchy is a paradigm shift away from the mainstream competing paradigms of realism liberalism and constructivism This book explores how since the mid 20th century the dialectic of globalization and fragmentation has caught states and the interstate system in the complex evolutionary process toward heterarchy These heterarchical institutions and processes are characterized by increasing autonomy and special interest capture The process of heterarchy empowers strategically situated agents especially agents with substantial autonomous resources and in particular economic resources in multi nodal competing institutions with overlapping jurisdictions The result is the decreasing capacity of macro states to control both domestic and transnational political economic processes In this book the authors demonstrate that this is not a simple breakdown of states and the states system it is in fact the early stages of a structural evolution of world politics This book will interest students scholars and researchers of international relations theory It will also have significant appeal in the fields of world politics security studies war studies peace studies global governance studies political science political economy political power studies and the social sciences more generally
