Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits Chip Colwell, 2017-03-08 A leading anthropologist explores the fraught project of repatriating Native American sacred objects in this moving and thoughtful work Publishers Weekly Who own the objects that connect us to history And who has the right to decide particularly when the objects are sacred or in the case of skeletal remains human As senior curator of anthropology at the Denver Museum of Nature Science Chip Colwell has navigated questions like these firsthand In Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits he examines how to weigh the religious freedom of Native Americans against the academic freedom of scientists and whether the emptying of museum shelves elevates human rights or destroys a common heritage Today hundreds of tribes use the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act to recover their looted heritage from museums across the country Colwell shares a personal account of this process following the trail of four objects as they were created collected and ultimately returned to their sources a sculpture that is a living god the scalp of a massacre victim a ceremonial blanket and a skeleton from a tribe considered by some to be extinct These stories reveal a dramatic process that involves not merely obeying the law but negotiating the blurry lines between identity and morality spirituality and politics Repatriation Colwell argues is a difficult but vitally important way for museums and tribes to heal the wounds of the past while creating a respectful approach to caring for these rich artifacts of history

The Indispensable Excess of the Aesthetic Katya Mandoki, 2015-07-15 The Indispensable Excess of the Aesthetic Evolution of Sensibility in Nature traces the evolution of sensibility from the most primal indications detectable at the level of cellular receptors and plant tendril sensitivity animal creativity and play to cultural ramifications Taking on Darwin's insistence against Wallace that animals do have a sense of beauty and on recent evolutionary observations this book compellingly argues that sensibility is a biological faculty that emerges together with life It argues that there is appreciation and discernment of quality order and meaning by organisms in various species determined by their morphological adaptations and environmental conditions Drawing upon Baumgarten's foundational definition of aesthetics as scientia cognitionis sensitivae this book proposes a non anthropocentric approach to aesthetics as well as the use of empirical evidence to sustain its claims updating aesthetic understanding with contemporary biosemiotic and evolutionary theory The text leads us along three distinct but entwined areas from the world of matter to that of living matter to the realm of cultivated living matter for exploring how and why sensibility could have evolved It points out that aspects traditionally used to demarcate and characterize human aesthetics such as appreciation of symmetry proportion and color as well as pleasure valuation and empathy sensory seduction creativity and skills for representation even fiction are present not only in humans but among a variety of plant and animal species

Racing to the Top William R. Thompson, Leila Zakhirova, 2019 In the international political economy of the last two millennia there tends to be one state leading the world as the foremost producer of energy and new technology In Racing to the Top William R Thompson and Leila Zakhirova argue that the US and China like previous leading countries rely on energy transition or the development of alternative energy in order to make new technology relatively inexpensive to develop and to fuel While the US has historically held the lead its edge in the global energy economy appears to be eroding and as energy leadership diminishes so does the country s position in world politics Thompson and Zakhirova take a long view in order to show what will be necessary for a new power to emerge as the system leader then map a path forward for energy policy Informed by a deep knowledge of world history political economy and environmental technology this book is the first complete overview of energy transitions over the past thousand years
