Protecting Human Security In Africa:

Promotion of Human Security in Africa Solomon A. Dersso, 2008 In Africa various conditions pose pervasive threats to human security Addressing these threats and promoting human security therefore constitute formidable challenges As the paradigmatic shift in the discourse on and practice of human security has led to a change in the normative emphasis from sovereignty and non intervention to responsibility and international humanitarian and human rights norms questions arise not only as to the relationship between human security and human rights but also as to the contribution of the human rights system in addressing human security threats and promoting human freedom What tools does the African human rights system have at its disposal that can be used in the promotion of human security on the continent What are the roles of the African Commission and the AHRC in this regard What are the potentials and the challenges How best can these human rights bodies be employed to optimise their contributions to addressing the pervasive human security threats and to promoting the well being of individuals and communities on the continent This monograph investigates these and similar issues including the basic one of the interface between human rights and human security Protecting Human Security in Africa Ademola Abass, 2010-09-23 This text explores the gravest threats to human security in Africa Written by leading experts on its various themes it combines legal and policy perspectives on the issues making it an indispensable book for those seeking to learn more about the real challenges facing Africans and African organizations Protecting Human Security in Africa Ademola Abass, 2010-09-23 Protecting Human Security in Africa discusses some of the most potent threats to human security in Africa It deals especially with those threats to the security of African people which are least understood or explored In themes varying from corruption the proliferation of small arms and light weapons food security the devastation of internal displacement in Africa the link between natural resources and human security to the problems of forced labour threats to women s security and environmental security the book examines the legal and policy challenges of protecting human security in Africa This work also analyses the role of NGOs and the civil society in advocating human security issues in Africa It considers the role of regional human rights mechanisms and judicial bodies such as the African Commission for Human Rights and the African Court of Human and Peoples Rights in seeking to guarantee human security in Africa Finally with particular reference to the Somalia Zimbabwe Kenya and Darfur crises the book studies the role of African regional organizations especially the African Union in protecting the human security of Africans Written by leading experts on its various themes this is an indispensable book for all those seeking to learn more about the real challenges facing Africans and African organizations Building Resilience; Human Security Approaches to AIDS in Africa and Asia Susan Hubbard, Tomoko Suzuki, 2008-05 HIV AIDS is not merely a health issue rather it has significant implications for other threats that individuals and communities face and is itself further impacted by these other challenges This volume explores the utility of human security approaches to AIDS in Africa and Asia It concentrates on programs that emphasize the human aspects of fighting HIV AIDS develop comprehensive responses that cut across sectors and disciplines and aim to protect and empower communities to deal with the challenges of communicable diseases Drawing upon five case studies from projects supported by the United Nations Trust Fund for Human Security the study analyzes the added value of human security approaches and the challenges faced by organizations attempting to implement human security projects on the ground

The Issue Of Human Rights In Africa Girma Yohannes Iyassu Menelik, 2014-08-08 Human rights as a legal concept and codification of human dignity were late to arrive in Africa Its evolution on this continent is to be seen against the background of the dynamic development of human rights within the United Nations system and that of international law although the impetus of this evolution is owed to the struggles within African states in the pre colonial colonial and post independence eras Human rights are rights inherent to all human beings whatever our nationality place of residence sex national or ethnic origin color religion language or any other status We are all equally entitled to our human rights without discrimination These rights are all interrelated interdependent and indivisible Universal human rights are often expressed and guaranteed by law in the forms of treaties customary international law general principles and other sources of international law International human rights law lays down obligations of Governments to act in certain ways or to refrain from certain acts in order to promote and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms of individuals or groups Human rights are inalienable They should not be taken away except in specific situations and according to due process For example the right to liberty may be restricted if a person is found guilty of a crime by a court of law Interdependent and indivisible All human rights are indivisible whether they are civil and political rights such as the right to life equality before the law and freedom of expression economic social and cultural rights such as the rights to work social security and education or collective rights such as the rights to development and self determination are indivisible interrelated and interdependent The improvement of one right facilitates advancement of the others Likewise the deprivation of one right adversely affects the others Equal and non discriminatory Non discrimination is a crosscutting principle in international human rights law The principle is present in all the major human rights treaties and provides the central theme of some of international human rights conventions such as the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women Human Rights as parts of moral discourse have significant implication on content of political social and economic life of human beings

Africa's Human Rights Architecture John Akokpari, Daniel Shea Zimbler, 2008 Presenting a critical examination of the evolution of Africa's human rights in the post Cold War era this collection methodically explores the challenges of achieving human rights on this continent The chapters provide a uniquely pan African perspective on the achievements failings accomplishments and deficiencies of the various human rights activists and institutions seeking to improve the lives of Africa's 800 million inhabitants The contributors to this multidisciplinary volume are all active in the arena of African human rights and come from fields of expertise as wide ranging as law politics gender studies international relations economics and history Protecting Human Security in a Post 9/11 World Giorgio Shani, Makoto Sato, Mustapha Kamal Pasha, 2007-11-09 This book offers both a critical discourse and regional perspectives on the major challenges for promoting human security in a post 9 11 world Regional Development Dialogue, 2010 An international journal focusing on third world development problems Gender inequality in the 2014 Ebola Crisis and Human Security Wasihun S. Gutema, 2017-07-18 Master s Thesis from the year 2017 in the subject Politics Topic Peace and Conflict Security language English abstract The purpose of this research is to examine how the 2014 Ebola crisis affected women in West Africa from a human security perspective The goal is to articulate how gender inequality has aggravated the spread of the Ebola virus diseases due to the unequal position held by women stemming from a patriarchal doctrine ingrained in Western African communities cultures governmental administrative incapability and economic and social inequality Gender inequality which is deep rooted in the culture of the Western African society played a tremendous role in the spread of the disease resulting in more cases and deaths of the Ebola Virus diseases to the women population compared to male It thus created a human security breach where women were exposed to insecurities Gender inequality was the resultant effect from gender differences that paved the way for insecurities Upon examination of the Ebola crisis in West Africa it became clear that women were the most affected segments of the society in West Africa particularly in the three most hit countries of Guinea Liberia and Sierra Leone Through showing the cruelty of cultural doctrine and gender inequality that have made the women population insecure this research highlights the importance of gender and cultural equality along with better policy to protect women s rights and to raise public awareness concerning harmful culture and devouring virus like Ebola in West Africa The State in Africa George Klay Kieh, Pita Ogaba Agbese, 2008 Preventing Genocide and the Responsibility to Protect Rachel Davis, 2008 The responsibilities of governments to protect their citizens has gained increasing acceptance in policy and academic circles and within the United Nations UN itself over the past two decades This was again highlighted at the United Nations 2005 World Summit during which the international community affirmed the principle of the responsibility to protect RtoP citizens The policy advisory group meeting on which this report is based focused on six African Asian and European case studies These highlight major and inter related issues of concern regarding effective and timely international responses to situations in which populations were threatened by genocide war crimes ethnic cleansing or crimes against humanity The Many Faces of Human Security Keith Muloongo, Roger Kibasomba, Jemima Njeri Kariri, 2005 Merchants of African Conflict Sabelo Gumedze, 2011 Despite their tarnished image private military and security companies PMSCs continue to feature in almost every African conflict Their presence in conflict zones presents a plethora of challenges as they generally remain unregulated and uncontrolled Initiatives aimed at addressing the involvement of PMSCs in conflict theatres have thus far also proved to be ineffective The engagement in vigorous multidisciplinary approaches aimed at championing and improving these initiatives remains critical in addressing the insecurities posed by these merchants of conflict particularly in Africa This monograph is intended to make a modest contribution to this complex yet interesting discourse through various authors presenting diverse and fascinating perspectives

HIV/AIDS and the Security Sector in Africa Obijiofor Aginam, Martin Revai Rupiya, 2012 Throughout history communicable diseases have devastated armies and weakened the capacity of state institutions to perform core security functions Today the HIV AIDS epidemic in Africa has prompted many of the affected countries to initiate policies aimed at addressing its impact on their armed forces police and prisons This volume explores the dynamics of how the security sectors of selected African states have responded to the complex and multifaceted challenges of HIV AIDS Current and impending African HIV AIDS policies address a range of security related issues The role of peacekeepers in the spread or control of HIV The dilemma of public health the need to control HIV versus human rights protection against mandatory medical testing needs The gender dimensions of HIV in the armed forces The impact of HIV on the police and prisons The chapters in HIV AIDS and the Security Sector in Africa are written by African practitioners including commissioned officers who are currently serving in the armed forces medical officers and nurses working in the military and African policy and academic experts While the book does not comprehensively address all aspects of the impact of HIV AIDS on the security sector the contributors nonetheless highlight the potentials and limits of existing policies
