Scope Of Economic Paper1 For 2014:

The Economics of Resource Allocation in Health Care Andrea Klonschinski, 2016-03-31 The question of how to allocate scarce medical resources has become an important public policy issue in recent decades Cost utility analysis is the most commonly used method for determining the allocation of these resources but this book counters the argument that overcoming its inherent imbalances is simply a question of implementing methodological changes The Economics of Resource Allocation in Health Care represents the first comprehensive analysis of equity weighting in health care resource allocation that offers a fundamental critique of its basic framework It offers a critique of health economics putting the discourse on economic evaluation into its broader socio political context Such an approach broadens the debate on fairness in health economics and ties it in with deeper rooted problems in moral philosophy Ultimately this interdisciplinary study calls for the adoption of a fundamentally different paradigm to address the distribution of scarce medical resources This book will be of interest to policy makers health care professionals and post graduate students looking to broaden their understanding of the economics of the health care system

Organised Retailing and Agri-Business N. Chandrasekhara Rao, R. Radhakrishna, Ram Kumar Mishra, Venkata Reddy Kata, 2015-10-07. This book examines the performance of organized retail chains supplying the agri input and output services in terms of achieving their objective of utilising collective bargaining power in the marketing of their agricultural produce, integrating empirical experience from India and other selected developing countries. The scenario of marketing for agricultural products has been undergoing rapid changes with the rise of organised retailing, the Indian term for supermarkets, a process that is likely to accelerate in years to come with India being on the threshold of a supermarket revolution. In fact, India is referred to as the final frontier in the development of supermarkets. The growth of supermarkets in India is faster than that in China, which is also witnessing an exponential growth as part of the third wave of supermarket diffusion. The book investigates the links between organised retailing and farmers and farming in India. Apart from raising issues of equity, inclusion, and problems in policy framework, it also discusses policy interventions that are essential in order to make the development of organised retailing more inclusive and beneficial to the farming community and agricultural sector. The book further serves as a guide for policy makers, helping them to select the right kind of interventions to balance growth with equity as market forces penetrate deeper into the agricultural marketing space.
