

Extra Testing Section - (Experiments 1-202) - Part II

Evidence for wave nature of light:

1. Interference experiments have revealed that light exhibits wave-like behavior in situations:
 - a. double-slit interference
 - b. thin film interference
 - c. diffraction
2. Huygens' principle can explain interference, diffraction, and polarization. Light passing through a slit creates a wave that has the same wavelength as the incident wave.
3. Light diffraction through several slits results in less light in the directions where the waves are out of phase and more light in the directions where the waves are in phase.

Evidence for particle nature of light:

1. Photoelectric effect: light propagates in packets
 - a. Without sufficient frequencies of light, electrons are not ejected from a metallic surface regardless
 - b. Energy transfers in small portions
 - c. Electrons transfer the same amount of energy in each collision as in classical physics
 - d. Energy transfers in small portions
2. Compton Scattering results in: Red Shift

Instead of light being continuous, it acts discrete, and wavelength increases when diffuse the photoelectric effect reveals that there are photons. There is energy in light. Energy exists even when light is not

Light light energy exists discrete, and light energy exists discrete when light is not

energy exists discrete when light is not

3. The wave theory cannot explain the photoelectric effect
