BIOLOGY: Evolution

Directions: Answer the following questions after watching the video "Dogs and More Dogs".

1. What is your overall opinion about the species of the dog that makes it so interesting to biologists?

The species of dog is so interesting because there are so many different types of dogs that are all different from each other – yet they all come from the same ancestors. The whole world of domesticated breeds are based on that original 15,000-year-old dog.

2. How have two major hypotheses about how dogs evolved from wolves (they) been?

a) First humans managed to domesticate the wolf packs by tending them and feeding them until they became the domestic. b) First people were willing to be tamed and they became dogs and not the other way around. Humans in Mongolia discovered wolves as useful predators (hunting dogs).

3. Effectuate the observation in the Tibetan dogs that subsisted continuously?

The observation in the Tibetan dogs makes us the continuously domestic species say that it's likely that other humans started to domesticate wolves, which happened more than 15,000 years ago. Humans found wolves useful because they were intelligent and loyal. The relation with Tibetan dogs observation indicates we cannot rely on the biological aspect many animals are doing but sometimes we have to look at something and it doesn't make sense. It might be that we have just started to domesticate it.

4. What's the reason to the two ways to explain physical differences between dogs and wolves. What are the major differences?

Some major differences between dogs and wolves are that dogs have smaller, more domesticated, generally, and a more tame and friendly nature than their wild counterparts. Domesticated animals are more tame and friendly than their wild counterparts. Dogs are also more social and have a more domestic nature.

5. Which evidence makes dogs more, partly tame and domesticated, since it would have helped domestication? Do you think that humans domesticated them? What about the experiment in domestic dogs?

The experiment in dogs showed that the features that dogs have developed (tame, they)
