November 2013 Economics Environment:

Environmental Challenges and Governance Sacchidananda Mukherjee, Debashis Chakraborty, 2015-03-02 The economies located in East South and Southeast Asia have witnessed an interesting growth sustainability trade off over the last decades. While growth considerations have paved ways for deepened ties with growing trade investment waves and increasing population pressure necessitated exploitation of hitherto unutilized natural resources, focus on environmental sustainability has been a recent consideration. The growth impetus still playing a key role in these economies, it becomes imperative that the countries effectively address the key sustainability concerns e.g. air and water pollution, land degradation, loss of biodiversity, climate change issues like CO2 emissions etc. But how prepared is the governance mechanism of these countries covering not only the legislative and administrative framework but also involvement of the judiciary, presence of spirited civil society and active engagement of stakeholders in policy framing dialogues to rise up to these challenges? The book seeks an answer to this question through the environmental governance mechanism and natural resource conservation policies in three vibrant regions within Asia. A holistic development dimension of sustainable development path emerges through discussion of policies adopted by developed Japan, South Korea, upper middle China, Malaysia, developing India, Indonesia, Philippines, Sri Lanka, Thailand and least developed countries Bangladesh, Myanmar, Nepal. Sport Management and the Natural Environment Jonathan Casper, Michael Pfahl, 2015-05-01 With climate change and other environmental issues becoming increasingly prominent, any successful sport organization now has to incorporate environmental concerns into their business strategy while all sport managers must understand how to implement environmental initiatives into their everyday business. Sport Management and the Natural Environment is the first book to introduce environmental theory and best practice in the context of sport management, demonstrating how sport organizations can become more effective and sustainable and exploring the important advocacy role that sport organizations have in local and global communities. It considers the unique social, economic and political space that sport occupies in society and examines the most important practical managerial issues related to sport and the environment including Facilities, Finance and accounting, Leadership, Marketing, communication and digital media, Operations, Stakeholder relations, Strategic planning. Including contributions from leading academics and practitioners, Sport Management and the Natural Environment is the perfect foundation text for any course touching on environmental issues or social responsibility in sport and essential reading for any sport manager looking to improve their professional practice. Resurgent Resource Nationalism Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection (MISTRA), 2016-02-15 The period between 2001 and 2008 saw the longest commodities boom in recent history. Resource rich countries across the world developed more interest in the profits, control and ownership of their natural resources. South Africa, which did not benefit much from the boom in commodity prices, was nonetheless affected by the emergent resource nationalism trend and it became the focus of the governing party's 2010 National General Council, which ultimately resulted in the constitution of a committee to review the country's policy and legislative framework regarding natural wealth beneath the soil. Although the resurgence of resource nationalism is a recent phenomenon, the idea of state intervention in the economy and the extractive sector in particular is not new. Resurgent Resource Nationalism is a qualitative study undertaken by MISTRA for SASOL Ltd that looks at the resurgence of resource nationalism over the past ten years. It discusses the concept of resource nationalism and its manifestation in public policy. It identifies the concerns, drivers and instruments through which resource nationalism is pursued by various mining jurisdictions across regions. It deliberately focuses more on the hydrocarbons sector in order to suit the target audience. The aim is to observe macro trends emerging in various regions of the world and explore how best private actors can respond to the various forms of resource nationalism.

The Urban Struggle for Economic, Environmental and Social Justice Malo André Hutson, 2015-11-19. This book discusses the current demographic shifts of blacks, Latinos and other people of colour out of certain strong market cities and the growing fear of displacement among low income urban residents. It documents these populations' efforts to remain in their communities and highlights how this leads to community organizing around economic, environmental and social justice. The book shows how residents of once neglected urban communities are standing up to city economic development agencies, influential real estate developers, universities and others to remain in their neighbourhoods, protect their interests and transform their communities into sustainable, healthy communities. These communities are deploying new strategies that build off of past struggles over urban renewal. Based on seven years of research, this book draws on a wealth of material to conduct a case study analysis of eight low income mixed income communities in Boston, New York, San Francisco and Washington DC. This timely book is aimed at researchers and postgraduate students interested in urban policy and politics, community development, urban studies, environmental justice, urban public health, sociology, community based research methods and urban planning theory and practice. It will also be of interest to policy makers, community activists and the private sector.

The Politics of EU-China Economic Relations John Farnell, Paul Irwin Crookes, 2016-09-23. This book examines the political factors in the economic relationship between the European Union and China that help to explain the apparent stalling of the EU-China strategic partnership in policy terms. Written by two specialists with long experience of EU-China relations, this new volume draws on the latest research on how each side has emerged from the economic crisis and argues that promising potential for EU-China cooperation is being repeatedly undermined by political obstacles on both sides. The work is designed to be an analysis useful for university faculty and students interested in China and the European Union as well as for the general reader, providing an empirically led examination that is academically informed and yet also approachable. Dissecting key policy areas such as trade, research and innovation investment and monetary affairs the conclusion offers a compelling prognosis of how the EU China relationship might develop over the coming years Ecological economics C.M. van der Heide, W.J.M. Heijman, J.H.J.

Schaminee, 2025-07-21 A textbook about the nature of economics and the economics of nature Is economic growth the cause of or the solution for biodiversity loss Why do we keep drilling for oil and gas when green energy sources are cheaper And is it possible to protect nature without government intervention The answer to these and other questions lies in economic knowledge But in an age when the boundaries between nature and society are becoming increasingly vague ecology and economics are still worlds apart Not only should economists find out more about ecology ecologists should acquire a better understanding of economic principles and concepts from Adam Smith's invisible hand to the Gini coefficient and from diminishing marginal utility to the Hedonic Pricing method The aim of this book is to provide students with knowledge and an understanding of economic science and to offer them a mindset for tackling the important ecological issues of our time The book demonstrates that economic theories are sometimes part of an ecological problem but can also offer valuable insights in the search for a solution The textbook is intended for use on ecology courses at institutes for professional education and on science courses A strange combination at first glance but having read this book I am convinced of the inextricable link between ecology and economics This book is an eye opener not just for professional and science students but also for policymakers and land managers My interest increased with every page and my knowledge about the interfaces and connections between two interesting disciplines grew considerably Hans van Rooijen Former director of Woodland and Nature Conservation course Hogeschool Van Hall Larenstein the Netherlands Old fashioned administrators and economists have a tendency to regard economics and ecology as counter forces And many nature conservationists don't think that nature should be discussed in terms of economic utility In all honesty both visions are fairly blinkered It goes without saying that nature has a value in itself which is why Natuurmonumenten has worked in this area for more than 110 years But nature also has economic significance and needn't be an obstacle to economic development It can even be an economic multiplier The thinking around synergies between economics and ecology must be intensified to make the world a better place This book can only help Marc van den Tweel Chief Executive Natuurmonumenten Dutch conservation organisation the Netherlands
