

Physical Science Module 2 Review Paper

Unit 1 Waves

- How is vibration an observable through continuous, transverse waves (as in the pendulum in this motion of the water).
- Transverse waves (the velocity) is a vibration (wave) the frequency controls wavelength. Longitudinal waves travel through a series of compressions and rarefactions.
- Waves can be described by amplitude, wavelength, and speed. Each one describes the wave.
- As a wave travels through a medium, particles are displaced and continue their normal motion about the wave source.
- Electromagnetic waves differ from other types of waves because they do not need matter through a medium.
- A vibrating wire is oscillating if it moves, you would need to know the maximum displacement from the equilibrium position.
- When the vibrating medium itself is moving, you would need to know the medium velocity (the wavelength).
- As described in wave frequency, you would need the period of oscillation to know period time.
- Sound is traveling through a medium, as a vibrating displaced particle of matter in the same direction the wave is traveling. This type of wave is a longitudinal wave.
- Because the particles move parallel to the direction of wave travel, it is called longitudinal wave.

Unit 2 Designing Waveforms

Questions	Answers
What type of waves can only be described as medium?	Waves that travel along through matter is called mechanical waves .
What is period?	Period is the length of the wave or the time it takes to repeat .
What is the relationship between amplitude and period?	If the amplitude increases the period also increases. For example, if the amplitude increases, the period also increases.
How does the type of medium affect a wave?	The wave can be transverse or longitudinal . The medium affects the speed of the wave.
Describe the relationship between frequency and wavelength?	The wave has the wavelength that affects the frequency.
