Consider the Grand Canyon, measuring 277 miles long, 18 miles wide and more than 2 miles deep. It is considered one of the Seven Natural Wonders of the World and attracts more than 2 million visitors per year. The geological record was created by the waters of the Colorado River through the processes of weathering and erosion. Erosion is the process by which moving water breaks down soil, rock and minerals, and weathering is the process by which the moving water fragments soil particles from one place and deposits it elsewhere. The two processes often occur in succession.

Weathering and erosion are very slow processes. Geologists believe the Colorado River has been flooding through the Grand Canyon for at least 1.7 million years, and it has been gradually shaping that unique river valley since. The flooding went off the river and its tributaries have carved away at the rock of the Colorado Plateau, creating the sight we see here today with today.

Chavez and co-workers were similarly successful in manufacturing good reviews. Contemporary critics, such as John Edgar Hoover-Chavez in Myra Katschen, and Howard Wilson, co-author of Myra Katschen, were highly complimentary of the group's work. Hoover, who was at the time Director of the FBI, wrote: "The group's work is of the highest quality, and the group's work is of the highest quality." Wilson, who was at the time Director of the FBI, wrote: "The group's work is of the highest quality, and the group's work is of the highest quality."
